Dear Readers of Endoscopy and Friends of ESGE

On behalf of the ESGE Governing Board, we would like to wish you a Happy New Year 2012.

2011 has been an eventful and successful year for ESGE with our ongoing endeavours and newly introduced activities such as the ESGE research grant and new Quality in Endoscopy symposia.

We hope you will enjoy our short review of a selection of highlights from 2011 where colleagues from the world of Endoscopy and beyond took the opportunity to gather.

2011: a retrospective

ESGE/EHSG/ESP/SPED International Symposium

Management of Precancerous Lesions in the Stomach (MAPS)

The meeting of a working group of gastroenterologists and pathologists produced a Clinical Guideline on the management of patients with atrophy, intestinal metaplasia or dysplasia in gastric mucosa.

The guideline is published in this issue of Endoscopy and simultaneously in Virchows Archiv.

Quality in Endoscopy ERCP Munich, October 2011

The first of a series, this meeting was a great success and praised by a large international participation.

UEGW Stockholm

Always a highlight for ESGE activities and committee meetings to design future developments in Endoscopy

Learning Area

The Learning Area in Stockholm was ideally located and attracted many visitors for hands-on sessions, animated lectures with joint presentations from junior and senior speakers. For the first time the DVD Centre featured a large-screen showing the live demonstration and was enjoyed by many delegates.

ESGE booth at the association village

Visitors flocked in to register for ESGE individual membership at the ESGE booth centrally located in the midst of the exhibition area.

ESGE booths

ESGE was present this year at the 13th Düsseldorf Symposium, at the JFHOD in Paris, at DDW Chicago, at the 29th GEEW in Brussels, at APDW 2011 in Singapore, at UEGW 2011 in Stockholm and at Amsterdam Live Endoscopy 2011. We look forward to seeing you there again in 2012, to answer your questions, share experiences, and have the pleasure to meeting face to face ESGE individual members. Special benefit for new members registering at ESGE booths: A reduced fee of 165 € for the first year of ESGE Individual membership.
