ESGE guideline

Combined endobronchial and esophageal endosonography for the diagnosis and staging of lung cancer: European Society of Gastrointestinal Endoscopy (ESGE) Guideline, in cooperation with the European Respiratory Society (ERS) and the European Society of Thoracic Surgeons (ESTS)
See pages 545 – 559 in this issue of Endoscopy

“New minimal invasive endoscopic methods for mediastinal diagnosis and staging of lung cancer are increasingly replacing more invasive methods. It is therefore of major importance to produce firm clinical guidelines based on the newest evidence.” says Professor Peter Vilmann, leader of this guideline.

ESGE in cooperation with ERS and ESTS presents a new multisociety European Guideline aiming to address the benefit and burden associated with combined endobronchial (EBUS-TBNA) and esophageal (EUS-FNA) mediastinal nodal staging of lung cancer. Additionally, the Guideline addresses the use of EBUS/EUS for diagnosis of the primary lung tumor and the left adrenal gland, as well as training issues.

ESGE grants

ESGE fellowship grants

ESGE Fellowship grants are available to fully trained endoscopists for further training in highly specialised endoscopic techniques.

The programme is open to ESGE individual members under the age of 40. Two levels of training are offered, a basic training with experts and advanced training with hands-on for specific techniques. The popularity of this selective program is made evident by the growing number of applications submitted each year for both modules grants.

For more information and online application, please visit www.esge.com

Application deadline:
July 1, 2015

ESGE research grants 2015

ESGE Research grant

ESGE offers up to two grants of 10,000€ each per year to original research projects in gastroenterology.

Preference will be given to multicentre projects presenting original ideas by well-organized teams with a reasonable budget.

For more information and online application, visit www.esge.com

November 6–7, 2015
Hamburg, Germany

Endo Club Nord is the world's largest congress for Live-Endoscopy.

Every year, 2500 participants from 30 countries come together in Hamburg in November.

Endo Club Nord participants can follow live the endoscopic interventions and operations from three competence centres in Hamburg, the University Clinic Hamburg-Eppendorf (UKE), the Asklepios Clinic Altona and the Asklepios Klinik Barmbek. The quality of selected experts and the multiplicity of interventions are unique worldwide.

Besides live broadcast, the congress will also offer the opportunity to attend lectures about new techniques and developments in diagnosis and therapy. At the upcoming Endo Club Nord, workshops with the possibility to ask questions in a small group will take place for the first time on Friday afternoon. There will also be enough time for discussion.
