An EYE towards the future

ESGE initiates the ESGE Young Endoscopists (EYE) working group

The EYE working group is something new and exciting within ESGE. The ESGE believes it is crucial to make sure younger colleagues are able to make their voices heard within the society. The EYE working group provides a platform for young doctors to meet, discuss and implement projects which reflect the needs of early career gastroenterologists/endoscopists.

In June, a call was sent to ESGE individual members under the age of 35 to participate in this working group. Over sixty applications were received and the selection was a difficult task due to the high quality of the submissions. The following persons were selected to form the first EYE working group:

Dr Livia Archibugi, Italy
Dr Daniel Vasile Balaban, Romania
Dr Ana-Maria Bucalau, Belgium
Dr Shivkumar Budihaal, UK
Dr Tiago Cúrdia Gonçalves, Portugal
Dr Gianluca Esposito, Italy
Dr Michael Fernandez y Viesca, Belgium
Dr Marcus Hollenbach, Germany
Dr Arpad Patai, Hungary
Dr Enrique Perez-Cuadrado Robles, Belgium
Dr Joaquín Rodríguez Sánchez-Migallón, Spain
Dr Andrei-Mihai Voiosu, Romania

Professor Marianna Arvanitakis

Professor Marianna Arvanitakis, ESGE councilor and coordinator of the EYE working group: "We had an overwhelming response to the call, with over 60 applications from 26 different countries. We'd like to thank everyone for applying. The working group will gather for their first time in Brussels in October and we will be sure to keep the ESGE informed on developments of this exciting new working group."

When will we see you again?
