Academic Skills Course

This expert led, seminar series will cover various aspects of the academic process to make sure you avoid the pitfalls and yield the best results. Topics include how to get your research published, how to design a clinical trial and how to become a good reviewer.

The Postgraduate course

The Postgraduate Course (PGC) takes place on Thursday, April 23, 2020. Aimed at both fellows in training and more experienced doctors alike, this course offers world expert led sessions on a variety of topics relevant to the daily practice of all endoscopists.

Designed to encourage discussion and interaction, our PGC provides a great opportunity to pick up tips and tricks from the best in the business. Topics include upper & lower GI diagnosis/treatment, ERCP, EUS and more!

British Society of Gastroenterology (BSG) & Irish Society of Gastroenterology (ISG) symposium

Do you want insight into how endoscopy may develop in the coming years? Get the inside track on the future of endoscopy by participating in the Joint BSG/ISG Symposium at ESGE Days 2020!

The symposium April 23rd will focus on areas which will increasingly impact your clinical practice: Endoscopic innovations – which are ready for prime time and need to be incorporated into our services? The role of big data in endoscopy and what it means for practice; how can we improve quality and training in endoscopy? Learn how databases can help endoscopic practice and opportunities for research; innovations that will play an increasingly larger role, from artificial intelligence to the optimal management of large colonic polyps, difficult biliary drainage, POEM, bariatric endoscopy; and how the delivery of quality care and training is of vital importance to all endoscopists!

ESGE Research Champions Den – Last days to pitch us your research ideas and win over our jury!

Apply by February 10, 2020, on esgedays.org website.

We have three questions for you:

1. Are you an endoscopist with a great research proposal?
2. Do you want to change the future practice of endoscopy?
3. Would you like ESGE to support your research project?

If you answered yes to any of these questions, then ESGE is looking forward to hearing your research ideas and challenges you to enter the “ESGE Research Champions Den” at ESGE Days 2020.

The ESGE Research Champions Den is an annual competition at ESGE Days. The aim is to bring hidden talent to light and to help established researchers to share their ideas and upcoming projects with the endoscopy world.

Potential contenders can submit their research idea online. Based on future impact, creativity and originality, a “jury” of five experienced endoscopists with established track records in research will select what they consider to be the ten best research projects.

ESGE Days 2020 – The ESGENA Spring School

There is a lot in store for the nursing community! Developed with the whole endoscopy team in mind – ESGE Days 2020 is also the congress for nurses.

ESGENA Spring School

Join us on Saturday morning (April 25, 2020) for:

- Interactive sessions on patient care
- Endoscopy nurse education
- Advanced roles for nurses in gastroenterology and endoscopy

ESGE and ESGENA'S joint sessions

Learn as a team and join us on Friday April 24, 2020, for sessions on hygiene, endoscope reprocessing, infectious outbreak management and endoscopy unit management.

Hands-on Training

If you are a nurse performing endoscopy, secure your spot for “hands on” endoscopy training as spaces are limited. ESGENA members can register at a reduced fee of 70€ per session*.

* Hands-on endoscopy training is a separate course not included in the congress registration fee

When will we see you again?

Attend one of the following ESGE endorsed events below and take advantage of the registration fee reductions as an ESGE individual member.
